RAILROADS YET WANALD.

Oregon is not yet by may meand supposed with all the paironds she needs. A roac from son e point on the Oregon & California, say Hoseburg, to the southern coset counties of hel state, is necessary as a means of conhecting these counties with the active bipsiness of the state and making them in fact a part of Oregon Branches from the main line of the Oregon Rainenee from the main line of the Oregon Railway & Navigation in Eastern Oregon, extending southward, are also required. Middle and Southern Oregon, east of the Cascade range, will settle up rapidly and furnish a large business, as soon as railway transportation shall be supplied.

The most important thing new to be done, mexicading the general railway system of the state, is the construction of a line from east to west across Middle Oregon The natural course of such a road would lie along the fourth standard parallel, say from intersection with the Oregon Short Line on Snake river near the mouth of Bosse, westward to Eugene City, crossing the Destitutes are interlocked with those of the Willamette Such road would naturall be constructed by the Union Parchic as an adjunct of its Oregon short Line. But there is a prospect of another road. The Oregon Pacific Is soon to be extended from Corvallis across the Willamette valley. It is known to be the ultimate purpose of those who are applying he moves to build this road to push it on over he cas accommutatus with a view to an eastern connection. Men of the Unicapital Northwestern at applicant of as promoters of this schema.

In middle Oregon there is a great deal of good, country. Along the Malhaur river and Barney.

everal consequence supprisons. It original tumber have been made recoulty to points and of the Mississippi river, and those who are interested in the exterprise, have books of working up an important business. As yet shipments have been only experimental, but our lumber has been received with favor in the eastern has been received with favor in the eastern markets and it is likely to come into great comand when its merita are generally known Our fir timber is superior in all respects to Michigan pine, the common building wood of the middle western states, and even the yellow pine from the Carolines and from Georgia, which is used for finer wood-work. The railroad hand from this city to tunnhapt Chicago is of course very long for a gress product, but the railroad companies, have to take hack many cars empta and will gladly make a low rate. The Short Line and Union Pacine are making special efforts to encourage the business, and we are issuined that mand when its merita are generally known courage the business, and we are assured that they will keep their lumber rate at a figure which will allow the traffic to continue.

This is a case where we are likely to gain ou important advantage from the hand tis as and general depression of values. If hinner we want general depression of twas in 1931 it would not be possible to send it east. The present ow values will allow it to make reputation for itself and to command a market even at advanced prices upon the return of better times,
